RAF LANCASTERS DESTROY GIANT TIRPITZ

Germany's Last Battleship Is Sunk by British

Hitler's Navy Now Practically Useless

By ROBERT EUNSON

LONDON, Nov. 13 (P)—The 41,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz, last "unsinkable" giant in Adolf Hitler's navy, capsized and sank early yesterday morning in the icy Norwegian waters of Tromsø fjord when hit squarely by three six-ton Lancasters, the British announced tonight.

Attacking out of the Arctic mists, it took the British only a few minutes to finish off this great potential killer which never had engaged in a single surface battle, and which the Germans were five years in building at a cost of $50,000,000.

One Bomber Lost
The cost to the British was one bomber, out of an attacking force of twenty-nine, an air ministry communiqué said.

Three bombs landed on the deck of the Tirpitz, which blew up inside, keeled over, and sank slowly, ending a three-year chase by the British and Russians.

The sister-ship of the ill-fated Bismarck went to her grave just a few days after reports from neutral countries had speculated on an imminent invasion of Norway by the Allies.

The Tirpitz, already crippled by previous air and midship submarine assaults, had been a threat to the Arctic supply lines to Russia, and a potential menace to any landing in Norway. She had kept some units of the British home fleet watching her moves for a long time.

Blow to German Navy
Obviously these vessels were freed by the sinking and possibly would have been available for the battle in the Far East much earlier than if the Tirpitz had remained afloat. The German navy, already a skeleton, now has its backbone snapped.

The successful mission of the big bombers, carrying the new streamlined, armor-piercing 12,000-pound earthquake bombs, was led by Wing Commander T. T. and Squadron Leader A. G. Williams, taking off from Britain on the historic flight the planes "landed away from us," presumably in Russia.

Roaring in before the Germans could throw up their usual protective smoke screen, the Lancasters caught the battleship in an explosive vise and the three direct hits were registered in quick succession.

First Bombs Silences Guns
"Her guns had been firing like a madhouse when we first arrived," said an Australian pilot, Flight Lt. B. A. Bekham of Sydney. "The guns stopped after the first bomb. Not a shot came up after that. Smoke began to pour up. It spiraled first in a column. Then it spread out over the ship in the shape of a mushroom."

"Afterwards there were several explosions. One of them was very big. One of my crew shouted out 'the inter-com, she's on fire, inter-com, she's on fire.'"

The fire did not seem to last long, not more than two or three minutes—I should say. It was difficult to see exactly what was happening."

"The ship was already on its side when we came off our run," his pilot gunner said.

Sinks in Shallow Water
After capsizing, the Tirpitz settled on the bottom of the shallow fjord. Only the keel and some parts of the bottom can be seen above water.

To the British air ministry went the honor of announcing the final end of the Tirpitz, named after the famed Grand Admiral Albrecht von Tirpitz whose unrestricted submarine warfare advocacy carried the United States into the First World War.

The Tirpitz, one of the most powerful warships in the world, had been hunted and attacked persistently, but the British navy was unable to sink her.

Is He Is or Is He Ain't? What, if Anything, Has Happened To Hitler Becomes World Puzzle

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, Nov. 13 (P)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels swung into a campaign today to persuade the world that silent, secluded Adolf Hitler is in "excellent, vigorous health," and not a ghost upon whose prestige Heinrich Himmler is trading as the real master of Germany.

Despite these protestations, the mystery appeared deeper than ever and the subject of increasing speculation, within as well as outside the Reich.

Mystery Deepens
There were increasing signs Himmler had taken over as No. 1—possibly even militarily.

The Moscow radio said orders given German officers in East Prussia "to fight to the last man" were signed by Himmler.

The Berlin radio spokesman, Dr. Rudolf Semmler, said that Himmler in broadcasting Hitler's proclamation yesterday, acted as the Führer's closest collaborator. Semmler claimed the words were Hitler's but he said the German people "will follow their leaders"—using the plural. German news agencies—solely for export and not in their home services—declared that the fact Himmler, and not Hitler, broadcast the proclamation issued yesterday under whose name "was in no way proof" of widespread reports that Hitler was incapacitated or dead.

Forsaken by Führer
But the perplexed German people could know only that, in their gravest hour, their Führer had forsaken them visibly and audibly. They had only the explanation that he was "too busy at headquarters, working unrelentingly to bring a turn in our fortunes" to appear in public or make broadcasts.

That there were perplexities, doubts and fears in Germany was reported by Moscow radio, quoting advice from "inside Germany."

Moscow said "fantastic rumors about Hitler" were spreading. . . . That again yesterday—on the day of celebration of the Nov. 9

Japs Occupy Small Island Near Peleliu

Marines Removed In Landing Craft

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 13 (P)—Two hundred Japanese troops occupied tiny Neeregon island, eight miles northeast of American-held Peleliu in the Palau group, last Tuesday night, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

A small United States marine patrol, which had been on the island for reconnaissance, quickly evacuated, and the enemy was subjected to ships' fire and aerial bombing and strafing.

Nimitz said in his communiqué the marines were removed aboard LCI's (landing craft, infantry) without casualties.

The Japanese were equipped with knee mortars and machineguns. Probably they came in small boats across the reef-infested Denge passage from Eil Malk island two miles north of Neeregon.

Neeregon is triangular and only one mile on each side. The purpose of the enemy occupation is vague but probably was for reconnaissance.

The Japanese could bombard Peleliu and other American-held Palau islands from Neeregon, but they would have difficulty in moving in artillery. The tiny islet, moreover, would give them little advantage over Eil Malk.

Nimitz said the Japanese landed under cover of a storm. One United States destroyer and two gunboats quickly blocked Denge passage to cut off possible further landings and bombarded Neeregon.

During Thursday night American planes bombed and strafed the islet and sank one barge.

Land-based aircraft centered their activity Thursday and Friday on the Palau.

Planes sank a previously damaged Japanese destroyer near Golon and sank a barge at Neesang on Babelthau island, largest of the group, and set fire to fuel tanks and other ground installations.

Japs Using Five Divisions
The Japanese now are using five divisions in their attempt to break American encirclement around Ormoc.

Cigarette Shortage Spreads to France
PARIS, Nov. 13 (P)—The American cigarette shortage has spread to the European war theater. Enlisted men in Paris were informed today they would get no cigarettes this week.

At post exchanges for officers the ration was reduced to five packs a week, which seems low to heavy smokers, but added to the chagrin of soldiers who get none at all.

Cigarette supplies at the front also were low, with soldiers reported out to two packs weekly in some sectors.

American cigarettes—still diverted from army supplies—were available on the black market at $1.50 a pack, and the price was rising.

French cigarettes are rationed to civilians at six packs monthly. They sell on the black market for many times the legal price of twenty-four cents a pack.

Capt. Gould Found Guilty of Conspiracy
NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (P)—Capt. Joseph Gould, former boxing manager, was convicted late today by a general court martial of conspiracy of accepting bribes totalling more than $1,600 in connection with the award of army contracts worth $1,000,000 to the Cornwall Shipbuilding Co., Inc.

French Pretender Ordered Arrested
PARIS, Nov. 13 (P)—The French government today ordered the arrest of the pretender, the Comte De Perle, who was reported wounded at Perpignan after crossing the Spanish frontier into France.

Congress Urged To Probe German Plots against U. S. War Output
NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (P)—A federal grand jury, asserting that German industry secretly hindered American war production through agreements with certain American corporations, today filed a presentment urging Congress to tighten anti-trust laws.

"Numerous agreements, in violation of the anti-trust laws, between foreign and American corporations have resulted in restricting the production in the United States of many products of vital wartime necessity and great peacetime value," it was said in the presentment.

Lawrence J. Sobel, foreman of the grand jury, said specific evidence which led to the grand jury investigation concerned dealings between certain undisclosed American

JAP BOMB MISSES U. S. CARRIER OFF FORMOSA

THIS DRAMATIC SCENE took place during the recent United States Pacific fleet battle off Formosa. It was taken just after a bomb from a Jap plane had missed a United States Essex-class carrier and sent skyward a towering spray of smoke and water. In the foreground, gunners on another American warship keep shells moving to their anti-aircraft battery to repel any Jap planes that may try another attack.

AMERICAN CAVALRYMEN EXTEND LEFT FLANK ON LEYTE ISLAND

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, Tuesday, Nov. 14 (P)—Advance elements of the First Cavalry division are consolidating positions they have seized on the heights of Mt. Catabaran, 2,300-foot high peak dominating the Pinampogan-Ormoc road on Leyte island, headquarters reported today.

The cavalrymen extended their left flank to include another key ridge position, termed Hill No. 2926, eight miles southwest of Carigara.

Japs Using Five Divisions
The Japanese now are using five divisions in their attempt to break American encirclement around Ormoc.

American fighters divebombed enemy bivouacs near Valencia, midway in the Pinampogan-Ormoc roadway, destroying numerous installations and causing many casualties.

The Yank Twenty-fourth division is "closing slowly" along the Ormoc road "in the face of increasingly strong opposition," the communiqué stated.

The Japanese Fifth division has been thrown into the growing battle for Leyte, pivotal conflict of the Philippine campaign, and an additional Japanese division has been identified from its dead.

This means five Imperial divisions are committed to the battle.

Break Enemy Resistance
In the Twenty-fourth corps sector, near the island's center, elements of the Ninety-sixth division have broken organized enemy resistance, the announcement said. The doughboys are driving enemy remnants into the hills west of Dagami.

Key American-held town in the Central Leyte valley near the island's east coast.

"Enemy air activity continues on a moderate scale," the communiqué said.

Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson, with the Twenty-fourth division, reported a significant change in enemy tactics. With larger forces and more automatic weapons and artillery than previously, the enemy, Hampson said, has lessened the number of his harassing night attacks but is concentrating on bitter defense of every defensible point on the road from Pinampogan to Ormoc.

Show Increased Weakness
Hampson said some officers interpreted the new enemy tactics as indicating increasing weakness, and that the evidence has been produced of the booby-trapping of Japanese and American dead and the laying of new anti-tank mines.

The second important action in the hills was the advance of the First Cavalry. Associated Press Correspondent James Hutchesson said forward units met strong Japanese resistance as they advanced to Mt. Catabaran. Terrain continued to be the division's principal difficulty.

Russians Closing In on Budapest; Take Ten Towns

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Nov. 13 (P)—Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army closed its steel arc tighter around the southeastern approaches to Budapest today, capturing the railway town of Jaszapati and, according to a German announcement, breaking into the important communications center of Jaszbereny.

The day's advance, in which at least ten towns were seized, carried thirteen miles northward and brought Malinovsky's southern and eastern columns within 20 miles of a junction.

German commentators, asserting the fighting on the Hungarian capital's flank had reached new fury with both sides throwing in reinforcements, said the Russians were attempting to encircle Budapest, with Red army troops in Czechoslovakia likely to join Malinovsky's forces in a vast maneuver.

The official broadcast German communiqué said Soviet troops had penetrated into Jaszbereny, twenty-eight miles southwest of Budapest, a junction of the Budapest-Miskolc railway, but claimed the attackers had been thrown back.

Moscow did not mention Jaszbereny in its broadcast communiqué, but announced the capture of the suburb of Jasztelek, five miles south-east. It was probable, therefore, that forward units already were battling inside Jaszbereny, a city of more than 30,000 population, from which highways and railways radiate in several directions.

Gannett Proposes Coalition Party
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 13 (P)—Frank Gannett, publisher, proposed tonight formation of a "national coalition party" to "unite the Democratic party of the South and the Republican party of the North on national questions."

"Some other name than Republican must be found," he told Unitarian Laymen's League members, "under which the voters of the South and the North can unite in a great party that will be opposed to an all-powerful, central federal government."

Hard-working American artillery also was dishing it out. Besides supporting the ground advance under the difficult conditions of bad weather, artillerymen were blazing away at every garrison town within range to drive the enemy into the fields where a shortage of tanks

Former Officer Held in Theft Of Army Plane
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13 (P)—Robert G. Kaslow, former army air corps officer, who escaped from the Craig field, Ala., guard house Friday night and fled in an army plane, was apprehended here tonight by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The assistant special agent in charge of the New Orleans FBI office, Zack J. Van Landingham, called a news conference at 7:45 p. m. to announce that Kaslow, 21, who was serving a thirty-year sentence at the Alabama field for violations of the articles of war, was taken in custody at 5 p. m. in the cocktail lounge of a New Orleans hotel.

The FBI agent said Kaslow would be held in the Parish jail here tonight and that federal charges are to be filed against him tomorrow "for possession of a stolen army plane in this area."

He already had been charged with theft of the plane in Alabama. The plane in which the flier was said by Craig field officers and FBI agents to have escaped crashed Saturday at Higgins airport near here. It was unpowered.

Van Landingham said Kaslow told FBI men he parachuted from the plane at 5,000 feet above a swamp near here and made his way into the city on foot.

Dewey Prosecutor Starts Probe Of "Slimy Mess" at Albany, N. Y.
ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 13 (P)—"One of the most slimy and shocking messes since the days of Boss Tweed" exists in Democratic Albany county, Special Prosecutor George P. Monaghan, appointed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to conduct a probe of Albany county crime, declared today.

Monaghan referred to a link he claims to have found between four New York state supreme court justices and officials of the county Democratic organization, through intercepting telephone conversations.

Monaghan was arguing for a change of venue for trial of John J. Murphy, office secretary and treasurer of the county Democratic committee who has been indicted by the Dewey-ordered special grand jury on a charge of appropriating to his own use $45,000 in campaign contributions. State Supreme Court Justice Patton Swift reserved decision.

U. S. Third Army Captures Major Nazi Positions

Advance Four Miles In Bitter Weather

By HOWARD COWAN

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 14 (P)—Three of Metz's twenty-two forts—one of them a keystone in the southern defenses of the citadel—fell with astonishing speed yesterday to United States Third Army troops who stormed through snow and bitter cold all along a forty-mile front.

The Germans ceded without a struggle the subterranean fort L'Aisne, one of nine main forts guarding the city five miles to the south, and two nearby smaller fortifications, indicating they were falling back into the city's inner defenses.

Advance Four Miles
Meanwhile, the wheeling movement southeast of Metz pressed on up to four miles to within fifteen miles of the Saar border, heightening the peril of encirclement to the city.

Fort L'Aisne is a series of underground fortresses similar to Fort Driant, southwest of Metz, across the Moselle river, which the Third army tried in vain to capture.

Pressing their head-on attack against Metz, the doughboys captured the village of Corny, only four and one-half miles southwest of Metz on the east bank of the Moselle across from Fort Driant.

The first indication that Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt may not try to hold Metz came in a broadcast early today from the German command's headquarters in the west.

"Certainly, Metz is being fanatically defended," the broadcast said, "but Metz has fulfilled its task already during the months of September and October when it stopped the advance of the Third army and thus enabled the Germans to deepen their front zone fortifications."

Fort Vervy, one of the smaller outposts five and one-half miles south of Metz but heavily built and deeply dug in, was captured without a shot as the Germans fell back on the network of fortifications guarding the city. Four towns six to seven miles south of Metz also were taken.

Troops Enter Tricourt
Despite the mud, which for a time slowed the Third army on this sixth day of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's new offensive, Sixth army division tanks in an advance of up to four miles drove into Tricourt, fifteen miles south of the Saar frontier.

Deepening their bridgehead across the Nied river southeast of Metz to at least four miles, these forces were fighting within four miles of the enemy base at Faulquemont, nineteen miles east and slightly south of Metz.

A second Nied bridgehead a few miles west was consolidated as the last of the enemy was cleared from Anceville, ten miles southeast of Metz. These latest successes increased to seventeen miles the penetration of Metz's eastern defenses since the attack broke Nov. 8.

The Thirty-fifth division in a gain of one to two miles entered Marthille, twenty miles southeast of Metz and three miles west of Morhange, where the big opening battle of the First World War was fought.

American lines thus were drawn up within two to three miles of the old battleground on the west, south and east.

As the American forces driving head-on against Metz reached a point five miles to the south, the big guns of the outer forts opened up for the first time. Patrols operating around Sorbey, seven miles to the southeast, were the first to feel the weight of the fort's fire.

Artillery in Action
Hard-working American artillery also was dishing it out. Besides supporting the ground advance under the difficult conditions of bad weather, artillerymen were blazing away at every garrison town within range to drive the enemy into the fields where a shortage of tanks

Eisenhower Needs More Artillery Ammunition, Patterson Declares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (P)—Under Secretary of War Patterson asserted today that General Dwight D. Eisenhower "has an imperative need for much more artillery ammunition than we are producing."

He told a news conference that the thirty-five days planned supply of heavy artillery ammunition in this country "That includes a tremendous drain on ammunition stocks in Europe."

All such material produced here being shipped overseas immediately.

Although our production of artillery ammunition has tripled since the beginning of this year the need for armed forces have gone up faster," Patterson said.

Baltimore War Contracts May Be Transferred

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13 (P)—In an effort to alleviate the manpower shortage in Baltimore's essential war industries, which over the weekend brought warnings that contracts might have to be transferred or cut, the War Manpower Commission is carrying a recruitment campaign right to the people.

The state WMC disclosed today that thirty-eight representatives were canvassing the city in search of some 16,000 potential workers needed to meet immediate labor demands in seven of the city's largest plants.

The assertion that vital war plants in Baltimore and other labor shortage areas were so far behind production schedules that contracts might have to be terminated, reduced or transferred was made by Tudor Bowen, deputy vice-chairman of the WMC.

WPB District Manager George W. Creighton followed through by reporting that Washington WPB officials had been greatly concerned for several weeks over a decrease in production in Baltimore and that curtailment or shifting of contracts was "more imminent than most people think."

County Chairmen Of Fund Campaign Meet Wednesday

Drive Officials Announce Leaders in Nineteen Communities

Campaign chairmen of nineteen communities participating in the National War Fund drive in Allegany county will meet with Harry C. Shupe, county chairman, at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday in the Elks home at Frostburg to make plans for organizing the solicitation in the entire county, leaders said yesterday.

Shupe and Mrs. William M. Somerville, of Cumberland, who is assisting in handling county campaign affairs, were successful in the last three days in enlisting the aid of twenty leading citizens to serve as community chairmen in the nineteen towns, and Shupe said yesterday he is highly elated over the caliber of men and women who have agreed to assist in the drive.

Goal is $25,000.

Many of the newly-named chairmen held similar positions in last year's campaign and were highly successful in raising the county's quota of $25,000, the greatest amount of money raised in the county in any project. The goal this year is $25,000 and Shupe said he is highly confident the quota will be exceeded.

Campaign officials said yesterday that Shupe, who called the conference for Wednesday night, is arranging to open a subsidiary campaign office in Frostburg as a special service to county communities participating in the drive and as a central point where they may obtain supplies and turn in reports.

Leaders Are Announced

This office is expected to serve communities in the vicinity of Frostburg while communities in other sections of the county will be served by Mrs. Somerville at the Cumberland office in the Liberty Trust building.

Community chairmen are: BARTON—Walter Robertson; BARTON—Kenneth Malcolm; CARLOS—Floyd Whelan; CORRI-GANVILLE—Mrs. Helen Matthews; CRESAPITOWN—Mrs. Herbert C. Hefeman; ECKHART—James Carter; ELLERSLIE—The Rev. W. J. Lloyd; FLINTSTONE—Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland; FROSTBURG—Edward J. Ryan.

Tourists Warned To Refrain from Visiting Florida

A warning to tourists not to go to Florida or to Southern California this winter was given to members of the Tri-State Traffic Club by Harry J. Biggs, vice president, who presided at the meeting held last night in the Algonquin hotel.

Biggs, quoted the Office of Defense Transportation as authority for the statement, pointing out that gasoline rationing is still severe and motorists may be stranded again this year as was the case last winter and spring.

Railroad passenger miles have shown an increase of fourteen per cent, he pointed out, adding that some of it is of course, due to organized military travel. He added that trains will be crowded and said there may not be facilities enough to handle all the traffic to and from the South.

Figures were given showing that the railroads of the nation have moved twenty-four million troops in special trains and in special cars, and army freight of more than 190 million tons from December 1941 to September of this year.

Indicating a possible postwar trend, Biggs said, is the fact that the Railway Express Agency handled more than a quarter of a million shipments of air express in the organization's combined rail-air service this year, an increase of seven per cent over the preceding year.

Walter N. Harig, Baltimore, traveling commercial agent of the Railway Express Agency, was a guest at the meeting and spoke of the company's educational program for its employees in an attempt to find a method of reducing loss and damage claims.

The Blue and White mentor added that he does not know if Paul Rank, regular halfback injured in the Keyser game a month ago will be available or not and if Bill Thompson, reserve end, who suffered a slight concussion in Friday's scrap, will be able to don the moleskins.

Harper, whose jaw was fractured in a hard tackle, is lost to the club for the rest of the season, including the Martinsburg game and the Turkey day fray with Fort Hill.

Rank was out for practice yesterday for the first time since he was injured but Bowers said he doesn't know how the torn shoulder ligaments will stand up under actual playing conditions.

Thompson, believed to have suffered the concussion in the final minutes of the game Friday night, was in school yesterday but was not out for practice. He may be in condition, however, to play Saturday.

Troopers Report "No Leads at All" In Search for Boy

State police said last night they have "no leads at all" in their search for Earl Martz, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martz, of near Rawlings, who disappeared Sunday afternoon and is believed lost on rugged Dan's mountain.

Police were notified about 10 o'clock Sunday night that the boy is missing and immediately started a search of the mountain that lasted until 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

At 8:30 a. m. State Troopers Glenn D. Polk and G. M. Rotruck and a searching party of about eighteen persons went back to the mountain and by 5 p. m. yesterday had covered an estimated eight or nine acres without uncovering a trace of the youth.

Troopers said they will resume search again this morning in an effort to locate the boy last seen about 2:30 p. m. Sunday by Pansy Lease, a neighbor. Oliver S. Campbell, a forest warden, telephoned the state police a few hours after that and reported the boy missing.

State Trooper Graydon S. Dunlap said the boy is in no danger from wild animals but said the cold weather is a factor to be reckoned with.

"The boy does not attend school," police said, adding that he was wearing a pair of blue denim pants and a brown polo shirt when he was last seen.

Goal is $25,000.

Members of Rifle League Get Prizes At Dinner Meeting

Prizes in recognition of their shooting ability and classification were awarded to twelve members of the Western Maryland Rifle and Pistol League at the organization's dinner meeting held last night in Central YMCA.

Classification of the members as expert, sharpshooter, marksman and tyro were authorized by the National Rifle Association of which the league is a member and the prizes were presented by H. S. Everline, a league committee member.

The prizes were awarded to Mrs. H. R. Yates, Frostburg; Harry Morgan, Frostburg; and Arthur S. Hoffa, Barton, as experts; H. R. Yates, Frostburg; Inez Andrews, Barton, and Mrs. Harry Morgan, Frostburg, sharpshooters; H. S. Everline, LaVale; Wilmer Hyde, Barton, and Raymond Parry, Frostburg, marksmen; H. A. DiUbaldo, Luke; Richard Beaver, Luke, and J. K. Snyder, LaVale, tyros.

NRA Films

A feature of the meeting was the showing of two sound motion picture instruction films obtained from the National Rifle Association. The films were "How To Shoot the Pistol" and "How To Shoot the Rifle."

Following the showing of the films, Harry Morgan, Frostburg, spoke on behalf of enlistments for a junior division of the National Rifle Association for boys of the junior high school group. Considerable interest in the program developed.

The league is anticipating aroused interest in an organization for national defense after the war and this subject was discussed at the meeting last night.

The six clubs represented in the league are Cold Springs, of Luke, Barton, Frostburg, LaVale and Cumberland and Fort Hill of Cumberland.

Matches Fired

Barton held matches with the Cold Springs club on the latter's range in October and November. LaVale fired at the Frostburg indoor range and Fort Hill and Cumberland met at the armory here.

H. R. Yates, of Frostburg, league president, presided at the meeting.

4. Resurrection of the federal crop insurance program, funds for which Congress has refused. Both major parties sanctioned crop insurance in their platforms.

5. Disposition of the House-approved flood control and rivers and harbors improvements measure.

6. Action on a proposal to revive the bituminous coal law, which Congress refused to extend earlier this year. This act sets up machinery intended to prevent ruinous competition in the soft coal industry.

Martin said he believed the old Congress could complete its labors by Dec. 10.

Those who will speak at the meeting are Leo H. McCormick, state OPA director; Harry Walker, Baltimore, secretary and manager of the Independent Grocers and Meat Dealers Association; and Clarence Strum, OPA food price administrator.

Demonstrations will be given by Herman Lissey, IRGMDA vice president, and Norman Wilson, director of the organization.

A radio broadcast will be presented over WTBO from 6:15 to 8:30 p. m. by McCormick, Walker, and George F. Garlitz, local grocer.

The meeting and broadcast have been planned to promote increased co-operation between consumers and dealers in connection with the price control and rationing program. Retailers, wholesalers, and club labor and civic groups are invited to attend.

Among the animals to be found in Norway are the bear, lynx, wolf, deer, elk, reindeer, goat, lemming, fox, hare and beaver.

The new classes listed include: Reading, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, analytical geometry, calculus, plain surveying, English grammar and composition, English literature, household mechanics (women), general psychology, child psychology, physics, elementary chemistry, United States History, United States government, Ancient and modern history.

Japanese Score In Liuchow Area

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Japanese drive to clean American air power out of Southeastern China appeared near completion tonight with the Chinese high command reporting only localized street fighting in Liuchow, former site of the last main United States air base in that area.

The city, which the Japanese announced last Friday they had taken, was abandoned by the United States Fourteenth Air Force on Nov. 8 after all runways and installations had been destroyed.

The current enemy offensive already had swept the Americans out of air bases at Hengyang, Lingling, and Kweilin.

(Associated Press Correspondent Clyde A. Fansworth in a dispatch from Kunning said that with the loss of Liuchow "Southeastern China for a long time to come, if not forever, thus has been eliminated as a possible zone of an inland offensive against the Japanese armies.")

The Japanese apparently had completed occupation of Kweilin, ninety-five miles north of Liuchow. The Japanese declared the city, which the Chinese earlier had said would be made "China's Stalingrad" had fallen last Friday.

The high command acknowledged there had been no radio contact with the garrison since then.

Roosevelt Accepts
Fly's Resignation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted "with great personal reluctance" the resignation of James Lawrence Fly as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. It is effective Wednesday.

The president told the FCC chairman, who announced his resignation last week:

"You are only on 'furlough.' I shall have to have your help from time to time, particularly in the field of international communications, and I know I can expect you to respond."

Fly will return to the private practice of law.

32,000 Wright Employees Idle In New Jersey

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 13 (AP)—The Wright Aeronautical Corporation said today 32,000 employees of its five North Jersey plants were idle after 1,800 supervisors struck.

The Wright Aircraft Supervision Association (unaffiliated), whose members voted yesterday to strike at 10 a. m. today, alleged company violations of the status quo through transfers of supervisors while awaiting settlement of a dispute on union recognition and working conditions.

The War Labor Board at Washington telegraphed a plea to stop the strike, which the company charged was "in direct defiance" of a temporary regional WLB decision last week on the dispute, which resulted in a six-day strike last September by the unrecognized supervisors' union.

David Newcomb, union president, replied with an announcement of a vote to stay out "until the army takes over the management of the Wright plants."

The United Automobile Workers (CIO), bargaining agent for 30,000 Wright employees, charged the company had shut off power at 10:45 a. m. and "is making us take part by locking out our members," local President Albert Capone said.

Munich beer cellar putsch anniversary—the Nazis reacted to a "Hitler proclamation" read by Himmler lent conviction to suspicions in well-informed quarters here that Hitler is out and Himmler is in the saddle. It was widely suspected that the proclamation was ghost-written.

The latest report on Hitler's condition, coming from a generally reliable source, was that he was last week under the care of four doctors including Professor Horster, an outstanding brain specialist who treated Field Marshal Erwin Rommel before he died. The other doctors were named as Prof. Morrell, Hitler's permanent medical adviser; Doctor Robert Poe with a homecoming tea Sunday evening following the regular meeting in the church house.

Mrs. Poe, counselor of the group, had been visiting at her former home in Tulsa, Okla., for the past month. Wilma Lee Steele and Thelma Shaner assisted Mrs. Woodworth in serving refreshments. Robert Martin presided at the business meeting and Donald Fresh led the discussion on "Communism."

"One of the brightest pages in The History of Human Progress"

Modern funeral service ranks with other professional contributions to public welfare. In safeguarding public health and in alleviating the sorrow of bereavement it serves rich and poor alike.

The story of the funeral service profession is one of steady advance in the face of entrenched custom, ignorance and reactionary prejudice. Its establishment of scientific methods of caring for the dead and comforting the living constitutes one of the brightest pages in the history of human progress.

Blood Is Wanted
In the Pacific

HEED should be given here as well as elsewhere to that has come from military authorities for more life-saving blood for the blood banks needed for war casualties in the Pacific theater.

Arrangements have been made for making this blood available to wounded servicemen as far away as Leyte island in the Philippines forty-eight hours after being drawn from a donor in San Francisco and within a short added time at other points on the continent.

The plan, incorporating the use of a blood preservative, a lightweight portable refrigerator and the speed of modern navy transport planes, has been announced by the Twelfth naval district at San Francisco.

While blood, as distinguished from plasma, has long been needed in combat areas because while plasma may save a man during the initial shock period, it falls when too great a loss of blood reduces oxygen in the system below a critical point. A major problem in supplying whole blood has been its extremely perishable nature, as it normally loses its value within a week. But a solution has been developed which gives blood seventy-five per cent of its normal efficiency twenty-one days after being drawn from the donor.

This, coupled with the invention of a lightweight refrigerator weighing only slightly more than the blood it carries, has made it possible to ship the fluid safely over long distances.

Be ginning this week, a regular daily schedule will take the portable refrigerators and their contents from the San Francisco Bay area to Pearl Harbor and from there to island bases farther west. Los Angeles and Oakland will join with San Francisco Red Cross centers in providing the blood.

Americans generally, and those having relatives in the services in the Pacific in particular, will want to help as much as they can to save the lives of our men and women in that vast theater of war, and here is an important way in which they can do so.

A Proposal That Should Receive Consideration

COL. BEVERLY OBER, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, is seeking an increase in the personnel of his organization and is offering some convincing arguments why it should be increased. He has made formal request of the state legislative council to approve plans to raise the force from 181 to 350 men and, as a necessary corollary, the authority and funds to provide new and adequate housing for the troops throughout the state.

While the state police have no hope or intention of usurping the authority of local police, it is pointed out that, in addition to the obligation they bear of enforcing the motor vehicle laws, some of this most effective work has been in solving major crimes in co-operation with the local police authorities throughout the state.

But, based on traffic alone, Col. Ober points out that it is essential that a state police department be mobile, be distributed widely throughout the state and function night and day, holidays and around the clock.

A recent traffic count made by the state Roads commission on five main highways over a period of seven months showed sixty-five per cent of traffic moving during daylight hours and thirty-seven per cent at night. It requires manpower to make the necessary patrols both night and day, and it seems logical that the night patrol should consist of two men in a car and not one as the force has been obliged to have because of the manpower shortage.

Distribution charts made from time to time, based on a personnel of 350, show but few men available in any one area. The present authorized strength, Col. Ober says, provides a distribution too thin to perform properly the traffic duty without regard to the many other duties the state police are called on to perform. Because of departmental leave, vacations, sickness, accidents and so on, it takes approximately one and a quarter men to have one man available for duty.

The record of the Maryland State Police has been very good over a period of years and local authorities are turning to the force for assistance more frequently. Its good work in this area has won for the force the respect and admiration of municipal and county authorities as well as the public generally.

In view of the record and of the expanding needs, which will probably be increased during the post-war period, the recommendations of Col. Ober should receive an attentive ear both by the state legislative council and the members of the General Assembly.

Fly Helped Prove Something Anyway

BY A STRANGE QUIRK OF NATURE, it sometimes happens that a public man's best contribution to the thought of his time comes in what amounts to his defeat. Such a man is James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, who has just resigned and announced that he will enter private law practice in New York.

Although a Texas Democrat, Mr. Fly entered the federal service during the Hoover administration as a trust buster in the department of Justice. Thereafter he served various bureaus and made a name for himself as a New Dealer when he served as counsel for the Tennessee Valley Authority. He became chairman of the FCC five years ago.

He proved to be the man that the New Deal needed to make a test of whether regulations of radio extend to censorship in the broadcast. He took upon himself the censorship function without specific congressional authority.

He read into the FCC Act sufficient authority for his purpose and immediately found himself at odds with fellow members of the FCC, a large group in both branches of Congress, and nearly everyone who believes in the constitutional right of free speech. In time, he found himself involved in a maze of contradictory opposition and the subject of a House investigation.

His resignation is admission that he failed of his purpose. It probably means that his successor will be content with necessary regulation of radio in the interest of broadcasting traffic. Further than that, except to prevent fraud and indecency in broadcasting, the FCC should not attempt to go.

A Big Panic Is Due in Tokyo

TOKYO is a sprawling metropolis that is more vulnerable than most cities to air raids. Some of its flimsy construction was replaced after the earthquake two decades ago by modern buildings. But it still is easy prey to sweeping conflagrations. Its people have been propagandized into believing that Japan is invulnerable. Gen. Doolittle's air attack in 1942 was a blow to Japanese confidence, but there still are many Japanese who have no conception of what looms for them.

Occasionally an American scouting plane soars over Tokyo, getting targets lined up. The B-29's are frequently over Japan and the Japs know that neither their fighter planes nor their anti-aircraft batteries can do anything about it. Tokyo resembles a duck sitting on the water waiting for the pot-shot. And it is imminent.

Berlin was a staunchly built city, employing for years the strongest methods of construction. Many thousand-ton attacks were required to do it, but much of Berlin now is a shambles. Tokyo will be less difficult of destruction. A thousand tons of bombs will make a much more devastating showing there. Jap war lords know this and are fearful.

But it is doubtful whether the people of Tokyo realize what is in store for them. When the dreaded manifestation occurs, Tokyo will be the scene of panic of proportions never witnessed. And a nation striving desperately to defend itself is not aided by panic.

Familiar Name Passes
From French Affairs

LOUIS RENAULT, pioneer manufacturer of automobiles in France and an industrial genius, is dead at the age of 63. Renault's factories covered many acres and employed 40,000 men. He became disturbed in later years by the invasion of American motor cars and called on France to bar them, but without success. France would not enact the prohibitive tariff he suggested.

When Renault's property came under the Nazi conquerors, Renault continued to operate the plants, afterward explaining that this preserved the equipment, gave Frenchmen employment and saved them from the fate of being shipped to Germany as laborers.

With the liberation of France, Renault was arrested on the charge of working with the enemy. His health was such that instead of being put in jail he was placed in a nursing home. At the time of his arrest the new French government seized his properties and so the name of Renault, so long familiar the world over, passes from current French affairs.

In Burma clothing is so scarce that often an entire family has to share one sarong. That should solve the mystery of where most of the family is at night.

How We Lost Our Job

By MARSHALL MASLIN

We wanted a job so my brother and I asked our uncle, who was manager of an apple packing concern if he would give us one.

It was an in-between season and we knew that there was work if we could get it. Out in the yard near the plant was a pile of damaged boxes as big as one of the lesser pyramids. Some of the boxes had nails out of them, some had broken sides or ends. . . and somebody had to repair them. . . and why shouldn't that somebody be my brother and I? . . . It would give us some nice spending money for the winter.

So we went into conference with Uncle Harry and he said we could have the work but he didn't know how much it was worth. Suppose we worked a sample day and saw how many we could work over in eight or ten hours. . . So we tore into that pile and in one day we fixed an enormous pile of boxes. We didn't stop a minute. We took only ten minutes for lunch. And we fixed one thousand and twelve hundred boxes.

When we told the total to Uncle Harry, he said that would be worth about $125 a day. So we could go to work, keep count of our own hours and let him know and he'd pay us at that rate.

We took over the contract. . . but we didn't keep up the pace. We never did attain that grand total again. Instead we dawdled and yodhoed at other kids going past, discussed great problems and often dreamed of summer time and fishing and swimming and playing. . . Sometimes we sat on boxes and just loafed and one of those times Uncle Harry walked round the corner of the box pile, took one look at his loafing nephews and fired us both on the spot.

It seemed that we were dishonest and lazy and hadn't kept our word and we were a pair of little buns and he didn't want us on the payroll and we could take our little box-hatchets and go home and tell our mother that her brother had fired us.

World Free Press Issue Overshadows
The Carping of Mr. Ickes, Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 — Mr. Ickes, who generally says the wrong thing at the wrong time for the administration, is out now with his quagmire refrain—a little softer voiced this time — that the press neither led nor followed public opinion in this election. Not many will accept his challenge to discuss the facts, because these are already too apparent to the people.

It took courage for anyone operating under the thumb of the government to oppose Mr. Roosevelt. As everyone knows, newspaper distribution is controlled by the administration and this is the life's blood of newspapers. Their ability to survive and their profits actually depend on the amount of print paper the government gives them. Those newspapers who decided to oppose Mr. Roosevelt obviously could not have been inspired by any of the baser instincts—business or selfishness, which is more than can be said for Mr. Ickes.

In Good Conscience

This time it was apparent to most people also that the press appeals on both sides were directed toward the intelligence of the people. This reflects the fact that their decisions were made in good conscience. The fanning of emotions was practised, with abandon and, largely by the extremists among whom the administration was more than amply represented by the Ickes crowd.

I would not bother to point to circumstances so glaring, were it not for the fact that there is a constructive job in relation to news and comment that Mr. Ickes could be doing, instead of promoting post-election discussions about a campaign in which nearly 22,000,000 people were for Dewey and 3,000,000 more for Roosevelt (and not Ickes, for if he had been the candidate I do not think even he would have won the election).

Newspapersmen generally study facts, issues and the prospects of what is ahead for the country more closely than the average citizen who may only read in haste as he hurries on with his living, gathering his headlines, and what he hears from politicians. What is needed constructively is more facts, greater newspaper presentation of them, rather than less.

Press Condition More Important

But Ickes does not deserve so much attention as a press condition which may wreck the peace. It will have far more to do with world freedom of the future than the formulas now ardently discussed, yet few government officials and practically no great section of the public understands it or its importance. The new league of nations can be no better than what is done about freeing news for the world.

We speak of liberating the com-tries we occupy, but we will have accomplished nothing unless their press is liberated from the old government monopolistic controls by which foreign government politicians not only directed the understanding of their own people about themselves but controlled all the news to us of their activities and therefore our own natural understanding of them.

There can be no freedom anywhere without freedom of news. You can readily see that spooned news from any of the world's nations can bring on war, as easily as aggression, indeed is an indispensable preparation of all aggression programs. In our own elections, news flows freely from all sides. Yet if only one side had been presented in this election campaign, any inducement for fact-finding presentation would have been eliminated and aggression domestically could have been accomplished.

Understanding Basic

Basic theory of this peace is that the world nations are to understand each other in the future and live in friendliness. They cannot live in friendliness without genuine understanding and they cannot have understanding without a free flow of world news. The peace will be false, whatever new league of nations regulations are made—no matter how strong—if the news can be made false. The balance of the world cannot be preserved if the news is unbalanced.

Complete freedom cannot be arranged at once. European nations have been spooned their news too long. Russia's press for instance, is the government itself. Yet I think any reasonable person can see that by whatever degree freedom of news is achieved, the peace will be effected to that same degree—and no more.

Gallant Fight

These are my views. A gallant fight for news freedom has been led by Kent Cooper, of the Associated Press. He spent twenty-five years successfully beating down European news controls as shown in his book "Barriers Down" which every American should read to understand fully the depths of the points involved. Both party platforms have adopted a declaration for news freedom and Congress unanimously endorsed the idea. Yet it remains in the category of good things which are not likely to be pressed to a satisfactory conclusion, or passed off with pious words to cover victory in practice.

If Mr. Ickes wants to do something constructive he can turn his tongue to this neglected subject and away from the American press, which has just now again in this campaign proved itself to be the most important phases of its business.

Serious Conflict In Congress Is Facing Roosevelt

By MARK SULLIVAN

The Congress that meets this week is the old one—the new Congress, elected last week, does not meet until January. But the session this week presents President Roosevelt with his most difficult political problem from now on—his relation to his own party in Congress. For the changes in Democratic membership in Congress, brought about by last week's election, do not materially modify the Democratic party cleavage in that body. That the conflict with Mr. Roosevelt will begin at once is due to the fact that there are already pending in Congress measures upon which the Democrats divide.

The Democratic cleavage, in Congress, is a deep one. It is a cleavage that has been building up since the Roosevelt administration began. It is a cleavage that is now being brought to a head by the election of last week. It is a cleavage that is now being brought to a head by the election of last week. It is a cleavage that is now being brought to a head by the election of last week.

gress and in the nation, is as stark as possible. It is between, on the one hand, conservative Democrats in the South and elsewhere, and, on the other hand, the CIO Political Action Committee, the American Labor party, and other left-wing or radical groups in the North. Hardly any two factions could have so little in common.

South Still Solid

The cleavage existed before the election. At times there was expectation that it might affect the election—by some southern states going against Mr. Roosevelt. But all that talk came to nothing. The state in which Democratic opposition to Mr. Roosevelt was most active and vocal was Texas. On election day, however, Texas went for Mr. Roosevelt by about 4 to 1, a majority materially different from that of 1940.

True, in the South as a whole, eleven states, Mr. Roosevelt's vote last week suffered a material drop from 1940, about twenty per cent. True also the Republican vote in the same states remained almost exactly as high as four years ago. This may indicate a future southern movement toward the Republicans. But the present fact is that the South this year remained strongly Democratic, as usual.

Inter-Party Fight

What the South decided was to keep their fight within the Democratic party. They fought the issue out at the Democratic national convention in July. There they won a narrow victory. They prevented renomination of Vice-President Wallace, favorite of the northern left-wingers and radicals, and substituted a Missouri Democrat, regular and essentially conservative, Senator Truman.

The next forum in which the fight will be made is Congress. There the conservative Democrats are confident. They think that, within the party, they are stronger than the president. This claim seems borne out by some results of the election. In Maryland, a conservative Democrat, Senator Tydings, was running for re-election, and the vote showed him to be much stronger than Mr. Roosevelt—he got some 23,000 votes more. By another comparison, Senator Tydings's majority over his Republican opponent was some 112,000, while Mr. Roosevelt's majority was only some 16,000.

Within Congress, CIO and the other left-wingers are weak. In any fight they make on pending measures they will be obliged to exert their pressure on Congress indirectly, through the administration. Whether the administration will help them remains to be seen.

Last summer, CIO took a stand on measures then pending. They did not, however, receive direct help from the administration — Mr. Roosevelt did not take part. Lacking such help, the measures advocated by CIO were overwhelmingly defeated by a combination made up of substantially all the Republicans and about half the Democrats.

What is said here applies only to domestic issues. On issues having to do with the peace, so far as now seen, Mr. Roosevelt will have overwhelming support from both Democrats and Republicans.

Nazi Line Break Is Expected Soon if Weather Is Good

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 — The next three weeks may be the most critical of the war in Europe.

There's a bare chance that, if the Allies get the "breaks," the Nazi line may be broken and the road to Berlin thrown open to our overwhelming number of tanks and ground forces. They will be helped by the biggest tactical air force the world has ever seen.

The main factor is the weather. If the Allied armies can break through before mud bogs down our tanks and rain and fog impair our flying, the war in Europe could be decided before the middle of December.

But if the weather is unfavorable and the "breakthrough" is held back the European war may be prolonged well into 1945.

It is taken for granted by military men that a beaten nation does not go through a winter season unless there is some hope of doing something effective in the way of resistance in the spring. And, if a war is prolonged into the spring months, the feeling of the defending side is that having gone through the worst of the months it is worth while trying to fight through the summer and autumn.

Morale Appears Cracking

The First World War came on an end in November largely because the German people dreaded another winter. There is evidence of the most reliable character available today that German morale is cracking notwithstanding the camouflaged reports to the contrary which have been supplied by German propaganda.

If, therefore, German morale is shaking and the Allied armed forces can get through on the western front the German people will go along with the large units of military forces that are expected to give themselves up. Surrender by any organized government in a formal way never really has been expected. The expectation is that unconditional surrender will be accomplished piecemeal.

The big drive on the western front has been delayed until now by reason of the German tenacity in holding the Channel ports. All our armies in Northern France and Belgium have for a long time had to be supplied from artificially constructed harbors and landing places. The acquisition of every port has been delayed by German garrisons instructed wisely to hold out to the bitter end so as to delay the Allied supply line from functioning in time for the autumn drive.

Tonnage Grows

But heroic measures have been taken to capture Antwerp and, of course, the armies in mid-France have been supplied from Mediterranean ports which fell more easily than those in the north. But the total tonnage passing through all available ports in recent weeks in France has been small compared to what it now is or will be in the immediate future.

Just which place in the Allied line will receive the maximum support for the "breakthrough" is a military mystery for the moment which the Germans doubtless would like to solve. But unspectacular as may be the gains of a few miles here or there each day, the whole world will soon see revealed the pattern of a herculean attempt to smash through and end the war in Europe before Christmas.

Estimates as to the probable outcome vary here among the well-informed. The belief prevails that there is a fifty-fifty chance of getting the "breaks" and ending the war soon. Inasmuch as so much depends on the weather encountered, the situation does not lend itself to forecasting by military men.

No Winter Stalemate

One thing, however, is certain. Whether the "breakthrough" is or is not successful, there is on our side no intention of setting down to trench warfare for the winter. There is every reason to believe that the air war will be kept up to an intense degree from behind our lines from the many hundreds of bases that now have been put into operating condition in France. Particularly in the southern area, Her the midwinter mildness will enable us to carry on strategic air bombing of German factories and supply depots on an even bigger scale than was possible last winter when most of the flying had to be done across the fog-bound Channel from English ports.

Will the German people see the futility of it all and give up? This may happen any day or week or month now. For when the Allies have demonstrated their might, the German soil and the big Russian armies which are used to winter fighting get under way again, the German generals may ask for armistice one by one until organized resistance is reduced to relatively small areas for mopping up in Italy.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

University Women Will Install Officers Dec. 2

Regent of State Chapter Will Be in Charge of Ceremonies Here

Officers of the local branch of the American Association of University Women will be installed by the regent of the state chapter at a dinner-meeting December 2 at the All Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Approximately twenty officers from the national headquarters, Washington, D. C., will attend. Mrs. Robert Teeter announced at the tea given in honor of Dr. Elizabeth Jackson, Sunday at her home in LaVale. She also said that programs will be presented at the regular monthly meetings which will begin in January.

Dr. Jackson, vice president of the South Atlantic region, and a member of the faculty of Agnes Scott college, Decatur, Ga., in an informal talk told of the beginning of the AAUW in 1881, which was the first national association of women in this country.

She explained it was founded by a lonely college graduate, who had moved to Boston and conceiving the idea for the association she advertised in the paper for graduates of colleges approved by the American Association of Universities to meet with her to form the association. Because of the numbers joining from outside Boston the association soon became a national one. Dr. Jackson told members of the newly organized local branch.

Primarily a study, not a social organization, the association strives to raise the standards of education, not only for the members but others as well. Dr. Jackson said. She told her audience that undergraduates have more opportunity to obtain financial aid, and the main project is to help the graduate continue her studies. Thirteen to fifteen fellowships of about $1,500 a year are given annually, to assure the student of enough to live on as well as the expenses of the course. Receiving the guests besides Dr. Jackson were the officers of the club. Mrs. Teeter, president; Mrs. David Whitworth, vice president; Mrs. Robert H. Mayer, secretary and Miss Margaret T. Loar, treasurer. The local branch has seventy-two charter members.

Mrs. A. H. Haast and Mrs. William H. Blake presided at the tea table, which was centered with a bouquet of various shades of chrysanthemums. Matching fall bouquets were also repeated in the decorations throughout the house.

Nominating Group Will Be Named by Democratic Women

The nominating committee of the Democratic Women's Club of Allegheny County will be appointed by Mrs. M. J. Fleming at the meeting at 8 o'clock this evening in the George Williams room of Central YMCA.

Reports on the state convention held in Baltimore recently will be given by Mrs. J. B. Dowling and Mrs. Paul Stein, who were delegates from the local club. Mrs. Fleming invites all Democratic women although non members, to attend.

Women of Moose Initiate New Members

Eight members were initiated Thursday evening at a meeting of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 914. The meeting was dedicated to the honor of the establishment of Mooseheart and its founder, James J. Davis. Mrs. Margaret Sticher presided.

The entertainment program included a cakewalk. The prize was awarded to Mrs. Edith Kifer and son, William. Mrs. Anna Jenkins, Mrs. Mae Keister and Mrs. Leana Gilden served refreshments.

New members include Mrs. Bessie Stickney, Mrs. Alberta Miller, Mrs. Helen Hammond, Mrs. Evelyn Bootman, Mrs. Elizabeth Zals, Mrs. Lora McBride, Mrs. Leona Davis and Mrs. Virginia Nestor.

Christmas Party Will Be Held by Homemakers Club

LaVale Homemakers Club will hold its Christmas party in the form of a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock December 11 at the LaVale firemen's hall, with members of the nutrition committee in charge. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Earl Conn by December 6.

Plans were formulated at the joint achievement day program held by the LaVale and Corriangville clubs, yesterday afternoon at the firemen's hall. Mrs. J. H. G. Miller and Mrs. Willis R. Hodges served as hostesses receiving the fifty-five guests, including four of the eight members of the newly organized Corriangville club; thirty-five members of the LaVale club; sixteen members of the Valley Road club. Mrs. J. C. Driver presided.

Mrs. John Fisher was elected vice president, and Mrs. Conn, secretary. Mrs. Clarence Ort was chairman of the nominating committee and was assisted by Mrs. Edith Comp and Mrs. Fisher.

The report on the playground activities was made by Mrs. Conn, chairman, who announced that she and Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Beatrice Bloss visited Henry W. Price to request the use of the old Narrows Park for a playground for the community. The park is owned by the Potomac Edison Company and the decision will have to be made at the meeting of the board Mr. Price said, and he will have a definite answer for the report next month.

Miss Maude A. Bean urged co-operation in the county playground program. Mrs. Edith Comp was at the piano for all the musical selections, which included group singing of the National Anthem and "Onward Christian Soldiers," which were led by Mrs. Ort. Two new members were accepted.

Mrs. Driver gave a report of the activities of the club during the year which included canning, art, clothing projects, literature and Vic-tory gardens. Opening the achievement program, Mrs. Edward Matthews, reporting for the Corriangville club explained that the club was recently organized and had concentrated on Red Cross work. Mrs. Dudley Browne, the only member of the LaVale club who is a nurses aide, spoke on the work reporting she had given about 600 hours work.

Mrs. Ort speaking on the LaVale sewing group work, appealed for more women to sew urging those who could not attend the meetings each Thursday to volunteer to work, saying the sewing and patterns will be left at their homes and later collected. She also displayed some of the articles.

Mrs. G. C. Ward told of the work of the Woodlawn group and displayed a number of articles including slippers, fraction pillows, lap robes and sweaters. Mrs. Hodges reported on the hospital sewing group, announced over 5,700 articles had been made in the year. Mrs. Douglas Smith reported on the surgical dressing work at the hospital.

The annual welfare donations of the club were made by thirty members and Mrs. Edward Killackey, chairman, announced that donations will be received at the next meeting. A large display of home canned goods, needle point, clothing, fancy work, wooden toys, knitted and crocheted articles was held and a style show of dresses made during the year were modeled by Mrs. Dudley Browne, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Clarence Geare, Mrs. Jett, Mrs. Driver, Mrs. Arthur Happe, Mrs. Killackey, Mrs. Douglas Smith, Mrs. Hodges, and Mrs. Mary Short. Mrs. Lee led the grand march and Mrs. Conn served refreshments.

Kenneth Ritter is in charge of tickets and reports 1,000 have been distributed.

LaSalle Seniors Will Hold Skating Party

The senior class of LaSalle high school will hold its annual skating party in the form of a "Blind Date Skating Party," tomorrow evening from 7 o'clock until midnight in the Crystal Park skating rink.

The feature of the party will be selecting a king and queen to reign over the party. Judges have been selected to choose the "prettiest girl and best looking boy" from among the skaters to preside as king and queen for the evening.

The committee in charge has arranged to pay the expenses of a date the king and queen are to have together, and so they say the party receives its name.

Many Leading Stocks Sell Off For First Time in Two Weeks

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (P) — Leading stocks, particularly aircrafts, motors, steels and rails, switched to the losing side in today's market for the first time in nearly two weeks. Reasons for the setback varied.

Some liquidation was attributed to preparations for the new war bond drive, the feeling the list would be unable to get through the seven-year peaks of July, desire to await congressional straws and further moderate bearish investment service advice. Issues with an armament rating had to contend with the revival of reconversion doubts coincident with the question of what may have happened to Hitler and a possible quick ending of the European conflict.

Dealings were rather active and trends lower after the start. Closing declines of fractions to more than a point were widespread.

Prominent in today's retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, du Pont, Johns-Manville, Kennecott, Western Union, Sante Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, North American and Standard Oil (N.J.).

The bond market made a try for higher prices today but eventually gave up the attempt and settled back into an irregularly lower drift before the close.

Railroad obligations, spearhead of the short-lived upward push, were the first to give ground under light offerings and at the end that group had numerous losers of major fractions to more than a point. The industrials and utilities never moved very far in either direction, although investment buying of some higher priced issues helped the over-all picture.

U. S. governments did virtually nothing. Sales of $7,503,700 compared with $10,069,900 last Friday.

WAVES Roll Up Recovery Score By Aiding Injured Navy Flyers

NAVY BLUE LADY: WAVE Florence E. Wilson, Ph. M. 3-c, makes Lt. Herbert T. Podgett comfortable after a plane crash

AP Newsfeatures

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — When plane wrecks occur in the vicinity of the Naval Air station here the WAVES "crash corps" stands by to give aid to the injured.

Under the supervision of Navy nurses and doctors the WAVES work side by side with hospital corpsmen in preparing dressings, giving transfusions and other emergency treatment.

The more seriously injured, or those who need surgical attention, are given prompt care in the station hospital's operating room. Here WAVES act as technicians and surgeons' attendants. They give oxygen and transfusions, prepare instruments and surgical supplies.

Of the hundreds of crash cases the naval station has cared for, a hospital doctor says, the WAVES have been on the job day and night and are so efficient the staff is able to give victims the best and quickest attention possible.

In the station hospital WAVES are specifically attached to the Medical Corps. They act as nurse's aides and in addition to routine duties they spend many extra hours reading to the injured men, and writing letters for them.

Solons Take Up Plans To Shift Army, Navy Game

Early Says Game Will Remain on Community Status for Duration

By BUS HAM
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP)—A renewed drive to shift the Army-Navy football game from Annapolis to a big city stadium started on Capitol Hill today, with a direct appeal to the president in prospect.

The move was touched off by Presidential Secretary Stephen E. Early's statement at a press conference that he was sure the president would keep the annual clash on a "community limited basis" because of transportation problems.

Previous congressional efforts to swing the game to Philadelphia or some other large city, where 60,000 to 100,000 might see it, floundered. The game has been set for December 2 in the Naval Academy's stadium which seats about 15,000.

Congressional circles reacted quickly to Early's comment. Rep. Manly (D-Ala.) said he would ask Speaker Rayburn and House Majority Leader MacCormack, upon their return to the capital tomorrow, to lead a House group in a final appeal to the president for a change.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), a ranking member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, said he was "100 per cent for transferring" the game to a larger stadium.

Calling this year's service teams "two of the finest" ever turned out by academies, Johnson predicted that the game this year would be the greatest in the long time rivalry. Johnson volunteered to go along with any other congressman in calling upon Mr. Roosevelt.

Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), House minority leader, said he thought it was "foolish" to limit the game to residents of the Annapolis area because of "alleged transportation" problems. Capacity crowds have attended games all over the country and any city selected for the Army-Navy contest "would fill the stands from people in its immediate area," he said.

Martin suggested tying in the game with the Sixth War Loan drive. He said millions of dollars worth of bonds could be sold at the game and that it would "give the drive terrific impetus all over the nation from the publicity received."

Capt. C. O. Humphreys, director of Athletics at the Naval Academy, told the Associated Press that it would be quite a task to handle ticket sales in event of a transfer "but it can be done."

Irish Coach Says He's Responsible For Army Score

McKeever Declares He Instructed Team To Play Gambling Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Ed McKeever, Notre Dame football coach who didn't lose his smile in Saturday's rout by Army, told New York "city sports" writers today he was to blame for the 59 to 0 shellacking.

"I knew we didn't have much against that Army team and I instructed the boys to play gambling, desperate, dangerous football in the hopes that we might score enough to win," he explained.

"Instead, such things as passing behind our own goal and running with the ball on fourth down from fake punt formations backfired and the Army total just grew and grew."

Eight of Army's nine touchdowns, worst licking ever given a Notre Dame team, resulted from passing interceptions, punt returns or recovery of Notre Dame fumbles. Eight times Cadet players snatched Notre Dame passes and ran the interceptions back 157 yards.

McKeever said his team did not play as well against Army as it had against Navy, primarily because Halfback Bob Kelly was not in shape.

Kelly did not recuperate quickly from the bruises acquired in the Navy game, which the Irish lost by a 32 to 13 score, and did not work out the entire week in preparation for Army.

"He is in such poor shape that we used him mainly as a decoy against Army. He carried the ball only four times Saturday—but I don't want to take anything from Army's great team," he added.

Asked to compare Army and Navy, who meet in the seclusion of Annapolis on Dec. 2, McKeever replied that the game "should decide that" but later rated the Sailor line as the better of the two while crediting the Cadets with more backfield talent.

"If we had to lose—and we Irish like to win as well as anybody—we are glad to lose to Army and Navy. No where is there a more gentlemanly rivalry. Friday when it rained at Bear Mountain, Army offered us the West Point fieldhouse for our signal drill."

Mack Sends Two Players to Minors

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP)—Connie Mack, owner of the Athletics, announced today he has sold Catcher Bob Garbar to Louisville of the American Association for an undisclosed sum, and has shipped Outfielder Bill Burgo to Milwaukee, also in the American Association, as part payment for Outfielder Hal Bush.

Garbar, brother of Mike Garbar, New York Yankees catcher and former Villanova college athlete, joined the Mackmen in mid-season from the Buffalo Bisons of the International League. Burgo formerly played with the Wilmington Blue Rocks of the Interstate League.

Bainbridge Will Play Camp Lejeune

BAINBRIDGE, Md., Nov. 13 (AP)—The undefeated and untied Commodore of the Bainbridge Junior Training Center were given a rest today before starting work in preparation for their second meeting of the season with the Camp Lejeune Marines.

The game will be played next Sunday at the North Carolina marine base.

The Commodore football team overwhelmed the Lejeune eleven 53 to 7 in their first meeting, but the Marines since have been reinforced.

Coach Joe Maniaci said he expected his Bainbridge team to be at full strength for Sunday's engagement, with Harvey Johnson, former William and Mary back, and Lou Rymkus, ex-Notre Dame tackle, returning to the lineup. Both were idle last week, Johnson with a bad shoulder and Rymkus with a pulled tendon.

Duke University Takes Lead in Conference Play

Blue Devils Go Into First Place by Walloping Wake Forest

By BARTON PATTIE
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13 (AP)—Duke university's Blue Devils, who have been playing understudy to Wake Forest in the Southern Conference football show all season, took over the kingdom today as the result of Saturday's 34-0 trouncing of the previously undefeated Deacons.

While Duke was taking on a series of top-ranking outside eleven during the 1944 campaign, Wake Forest concentrated on conference competition and entered the Duke game with a perfect record of five family successes and outside triumphs over Georgia and Miami.

William and Mary surprised Saturday's biggest surprise within the conference, however, was furnished by William and Mary's young civilian club which battled North Carolina's V-12ers, recently reinforced by Navy transfers from Duke, to a scoreless deadlock.

Clemson's 57-12 margin over V. M. I.'s 17-year-olds also was an eye-brow lifter and kept the Tigers entrenched in third place in the conference standings.

Two other conference teams took poundings from outsiders, Richmond yielding to the strong Virginia eleven, 39-0, and Maryland bowing, 33-0, to Michigan State in the Old Liners second test of the season with the midwesterners. Michigan State won the first tilt, 8-0. South Carolina's gamecock drubbed Presbyterian, 26-7.

Duke has two more barriers to hurdle to retain its conference crown, meeting South Carolina at Columbia next Saturday and North Carolina on the following weekend. North Carolina State engages Richmond at Raleigh and William and Mary tackles V. M. I. in the other family tests set for Saturday. Wake Forest has an open date for Saturday.

Topnotch Competition
The remaining members will face some top-notch outside competition. North Carolina traveling to New Haven to meet undefeated Yale, Clemson playing at Tulane, and Maryland still seeking its first win of the season, will be at Penn State.

Police Boys Win Fourth Straight Game; Score 26-0

The Cumberland Police Boys' football team chalked up its fourth straight victory and its seventh in nine games this season by walloping Narrows Park Sunday by a score of 26 to 0 on Campobello field.

Holding Narrows Park to four yards and three plays at the start of the game, the visitors punted from their own twenty-five to the Boys' club forty and Tucker carried it back to the Narrows Park thirty.

"Sonny" Robinson made fifteen yards around left end for a first down. Jack Klosterman then shot a bullet pass to W. White who snagged it over the goal line for the first touchdown.

The second score came when Jim Klosterman went over from the seventeen yard line.

The Narrows Park team drove ninety yards in the third quarter to the Police Boys' club three yard line where they lost the ball when Jesse Baker broke through and tackled Copp causing him to fumble. Bud Morrissey recovered for the home club.

Edward Sturtz made the longest run of the game by going fifty-five yards for the third touchdown, and Wayne White made it 25 to 0 when he ran twenty yards for the final score. Bowman place kicked the extra point.

"Pose" Warnick and "Renie" Morrissey were the outstanding line for the Boys' club while Arnone was best for Narrows Park. The Boys' club made twelve first downs and gained 200 yards while the visitors had eight first down and 115 yards. Narrows Park tried nine passes, two were completed and three intercepted. The Boys' club completed five of eight passes, with one being intercepted.

Army Maintains Rank as Leading Team in Nation

Rout of Notre Dame Gives Cadets Added Strength in Football Poll

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Army, by drubbing Notre Dame Saturday, not only tightened its own grasp on first place in today's Associated Press poll to determine the country's ranking football team but also knocked the Irish out of the elite ranking for the first time since Oct. 12, 1942.

The South Bend Ramblers skidded all the way to eleventh in the estimation of 106 of the country's sports writers, following their losses to Navy and Army on consecutive Saturdays.

The Cadets grabbed seventy-seven of the first place nominations, gathered in twenty-five selections for second place and were third on two and fourth on the remaining pair. On a basis of ten points for each first place vote, nine for second, etc., they totaled 935 points.

Ohio State Is Fourth
Randolph Field climbed to second place with 770 points, exchanging places with Ohio State's civilians, who are in fourth place with 741. Navy, third a week ago, retained that rating with 759 points.

The Buckeye drop followed a 54 to 19 conquest of Pittsburgh. The Texas fliers conquered Maxwell Field, 25 to 0, in their most recent outing.

Georgia Tech and Duke, two Southern powers, moved into the top ten, displacing Illinois and the Irish. Tech snared ninth place while Duke, which spilled previously unbeaten Wake Forest, was awarded tenth.

Michigan, Bainbridge, Md., Navy, Iowa Pre-Flight and the Fourth Air Force eleven at March Field filled the remaining positions.

Notre Dame was a lowly twenty-second in the poll of Oct. 12, 1942 but shot to eighth place the next week with a surprise 28 to 0 verdict over Col. Bernie Bierman's Iowa Seahawks.

The Irish were not dislodged from the top group with the remainder of that season and were in first place during all the 1943 polls. For the first three weeks of the present campaign they again held that throne but were pushed off the throne by Army two weeks ago.

Last week, after their 32 to 13 setback by Navy, they slumped to sixth place.

Illinois, tenth last week, dropped to twenty-fourth this time while Georgia Tech climbed from thirteenth place and Duke moved up from twentieth.

Huge Crowd Will See Illinois and Buckeyes
CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP)—The sides of Cleveland's Municipal Stadium will be virtually bulging when Illinois and Ohio State meet Saturday in one of the nation's top football games.

Doug Mills, Illinois athletic director, said here today 82,363 seats already have been sold for the game, "and we could sell 150,000 if we had places to put them," he added.

The stadium has a normal seating capacity of 78,811 for baseball games. The additional 3,500 will be seated in temporary bleachers Saturday, Mills said.

The SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE

The Mutuels vs. the Bookies
Four hundred million dollars worth of racing is coming to an end in New York on Wednesday. This is quite a chunk of cash. At least it is to be when you and I were younger. In this bewildering world we live in today $400,000,000 is just loose change.

In any event here is an interesting argument that has come to light as follows—

"Dear Mr. Rice—I wonder if any of the old-time bookmakers have ever made a comparison between the odds developed by the pari mutuels and what they offered. In other words how scientific were the old timers or to what advantage in the past did the public have the advantage of equitable odds? Who gave the fairer prices?"

KENNETH OSBORN.

This leads to an extremely interesting debate. Your correspondent lost no time in leaping in the general direction of such famous players as Tom Shaw and Frank Shannon, who certainly knew and still know the proper odds. They were highly and properly indignant that any such argument should develop.

"In my opinion," Morning-Line Frank Shannon said, "after only fifty years of racing experience, the old bookmakers were so far ahead of the mutuels there could be no comparison. Just remember this—these bookmakers were racing veterans who knew their stuff. They couldn't afford to make percentage mistakes when someone would chuck a $20,000 bet in their direction. Most of the fans in the present big crowds that storm New York tracks don't know a horse from a mule."

"All they can see is the favorite or some long shot. So they make a 3 to 1 shot a 3 to 5 shot. They'll back a certain winning jockey who is on a 5 to 1 shot down to an 8 to 5. Most of it doesn't make any sense. My morning line? Well, I have to make some horse a favorite, but a lot of times I wouldn't want

The Old Timer's Angle

"I'd say," one veteran bookmaker told me, "we gave the players at least one hundred percent the best of it over these mutuel machines. We know our day is over, so far as setting prices are concerned."

"As very one knows, outside bookmakers still keep busy. With $400,000,000 handled at New York tracks, at least $250,000,000 is handled away from the tracks. There would be no such betting as this under the old bookmaker system at the track. But with bookmakers laying out the prices, there would at least be a better break for the players, and far less money lost. The state? No, the state wouldn't get any $25,000,000 a year. But the citizens of the state would be far better off at the end of the year—by many millions."

"In the old days we had largely old-time horse players competing with smart horsemen handling the books. It was a matter of close percentage."

"Today the mobs that invade Belmont, Aqueduct and Jamaica haven't any idea what it's all about. Most of them wouldn't know a favorite from a 10 to 1 shot. They take a stab in the dark and let nature take its course. At the end of the year they are only out some $44,000,

Trevor Jones Is Fined $100 at Frostburg On Motor Law Charge

Trevor Garfield Jones, 933 Maryland avenue, was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Owen L. Porter at Frostburg Friday afternoon on a charge of operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license.

State Trooper Graydon S. Dunlap said he arrested Jones about 1:15 p. m. as he was driving a Charlton Brothers Transportation Company truck toward Frostburg on Route 40.

According to the trooper, Jones' license was revoked about six months ago after he had been fined $25 and costs on a charge of unauthorized use of a taxicab. Jones' record, Dunlap said, includes a supersede sentence on a charge of stealing from a local gasoline service station.

Cumberland Steel Employees Call Work Stoppage

Union Says Men Leave Jobs To Force Signing of New Contract

Production at the Cumberland Steel Company plant, which stopped yesterday morning at 10 o'clock when fifty-eight members of the International Association of Machinists (IAM), Lodge No. 489, stopped work in what union officials said was an effort to force the company to sign a proposed contract, was still in effect at midnight despite a War Labor Board order to return to work at once.

The WLB telegram, to Albert D. Harrison, president, and Raymond May, secretary of the union, which declared the stoppage was "seriously interfering with the production of critical materials needed by our armed forces and must be terminated immediately" was read at a meeting of the union last evening at 8 o'clock in the Windsor hotel when the union's shop committee related to the members of the union the steps it had taken to settle the dispute.

The telegram said the board has halted the processing of the union's case before the Appeal committee until work is resumed.

The union president, who disclosed the stoppage was not authorized by union officials, said last evening that no action had been taken by the men on the WLB order. The men, he added, waited until their patience was exhausted before taking the present action.

A national representative of the union is trying to arrange a meeting with the company, union officials declared.

The union president said the dispute between the union and the company began in February 1, 1943 and has been acted upon by War Labor Board panels at Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Protests Continued Delay

Protesting "continued delay" on the part of the company, Harrison said the War Labor Board, in a decision dated August 4 and effective immediately, approved all of the disputed articles in favor of the union.

The Cumberland Steel Company, Anderson declared, has had a copy of the contract proposed by the union for six weeks yet "did not have time to look it over."

Union officials believed the company's desire to have included in the contract an article concerning "custom of the plant."

The company has appealed the "custom" clause to the appeal board of the National War Labor Board, the union asserts, after the regional board refused to include the disputed article in the contract provisions, ruling the matter must be handled collectively.

"Custom" Clause Disputed

The disputed clause, "Irrespective of the name given to any occupation, the duties of any employee shall continue to be those duties heretofore performed by like employees in accordance with the custom of the plant" would make it impossible for the men to improve their working conditions through collective bargaining, the union asserts.

A company official confirmed the report of the work stoppage and said the plant engaged in essential work was "closed down" but declined to issue a statement.

The present continuing contract has been in effect for over two years, the company spokesman said.

Chaplain Amtower Is Wounded on Palau Island

Amtower, United States Navy, is recovering in a navy hospital somewhere in the South Pacific, of wounds received September 16, in the Palau invasion, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. The first word of his being wounded was received by his parents from Chaplain Amtower, who wrote while a patient on a hospital ship being taken from Palau, merely mentioning he had been wounded, but was able to write to them so not to worry if they received word from the navy.

Chaplain Amtower, who has been in the service seventeen months, served for eight months at the naval air technical center, Jacksonville, Fla., before going to the South Pacific with a marine division, last May.

Chaplain Amtower has three brothers in the service, Arthur T. Amtower, who has been in the service thirty-one months with the United States Army in the European theater; Norman E. # 200 Aluminum Banded Turkeys Released in Allegany County

Hunters Asked To Report Kills for Scientific Study of Birds

Two hundred turkeys, wearing aluminum bands, have been released in Allegany county in the past week, and will become legal game when the 1944 upland game season opens tomorrow at sunrise.

The largest part of the gobblers and hens were stocked east of Cumberland from Mertens avenue west on Town Hill and Green Ridge, also on Green Ridge station. Distribution of the birds was in charge of Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, and Battie Mixon, district game warden.

Birds Come from Pearre

Hens averaged from 7 to 8 1/2 pounds while the gobblers' average weight was 10 to 13 1/2 pounds. The birds were sent to Allegany county from the state turkey farm at Pearre, Washington county, where E. R. McCullough is superintendent. The farm has facilities for raising 1,000 turkeys.

Banding of the birds with aluminum was done for scientific study. Hunters bagging these turkeys are requested to notify by mail or telephone Minke, Mixon or Kenneth A. Wilson, game technician, who resides on the Bedford road. Those making reports are asked to give the number of the band, the weight of the bird and the location where killed.

All species of game with the exception of deer and dove may be taken when the upland season gets under way tomorrow in Allegany county. The six-day deer season is scheduled to open Monday, December 4.

6,200 Fish Planted in Canal

Battie Mixon announced that 6,200 catfish and blue gill have been stocked in the new Chesapeake and Ohio canal fishing grounds east of Cumberland within the past week. This increases to 9,700 the number of fish planted in the canal in the past month. Between 10,000 and 15,000 additional fish, including brood bass, will be placed in the stream in the near future. The fishing season will close on November 30.

Mixon said the canal project will be completed in about ten days.

Charges Crop Destruction

The defendant's agents, she charged "passed to and fro on foot and by truck and automobile with supplies and equipment" over her property, dug up the land and "carried away a large amount of earth and stones, and in the process, destroyed the crops."

In addition, Mrs. McKenzie charged, the defendant cut down a "large quantity of timber and underbrush" and lowered the level of the river banks so as to subject the adjacent valuable bottom lands to destructive flooding.

A water pumping station was erected and operated, Mrs. McKenzie asserted, and a roadway was built through the property by digging up a portion of it and filling in other parts, thus dividing the plaintiff's land and interfering with her accustomed and convenient use of it.

Says Road Causes Damage

Construction of the road, Mrs. McKenzie charged through her attorney, Harry I. Stegmair, causes surface water falling during heavy rains to collect and also to flow over her land carrying with it large quantities of sand and gravel, thereby destroying her crops and meadows and making the land unfit for cultivation.

Says Company Ready To Pay

According to the bill of complaint, the complainant believes the defendant is willing to pay the death benefit to whomever is legally entitled to it, but, she charges, because of Boal's fraudulent claim, the company cannot make payment until the assignment has been declared null and void by the court.

She asks that the insurance company be directed to pay the proceeds of the policy to the court so that the money may be distributed under the direction of the court.

Albert A. Doub, Jr., and Neil C. Fraley represent the complainant.

Potomac Council Dinner Is Scheduled Dec. 12

The annual Scout Appreciation dinner of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held Tuesday, December 12, at 6:30 p. m., in the All Ghan Shrine Council Club.

The date and place was announced last evening at a meeting of the executive board at the home of Dr. Frank U. Davis, Washington street.

In preparation for the Christmas rush, the local post office is asking senders to mail cards and packages early. Posters, which stress mailing Christmas packages in November, have been issued.

Because all facilities—air, steamship and rail—are under strain, early mailing is necessary to insure delivery by December 25. Postmaster James C. Shriver pointed out yesterday. A million pieces of mail are expected to go through the local post office in the seven or eight heaviest days of the rush.

The local post office expects to employ about sixty-five extra persons this season. They will receive seventy-five cents an hour and will work at irregular hours, both inside the office and on delivery service.

Approximately 120 names, seventy-five per cent of which are those of young men and women between the ages of 16 and 30, have been sent to the Post Office department, Washington, for certification. The local office will start taking on temporary extra help any time after December 1. Postmaster Shriver said.

The peak of the rush is expected between December 18 and 20, although it may vary if the public, as last year, responds to the request to mail early. Five extra delivery trucks will be used this season. Delivery hours will be the same as usual, Shriver said.

The post office also advises that Christmas cards be sent as sealed, first-class matter, requiring a three-cent stamp, instead of as unsealed, third-class mail. Sealed, first-class cards may contain writing and will receive prompt delivery, as well as directory service in case of error in, or change of, address. Directory service is not given third-class matter.

It was also pointed out that, as Christmas is on a Monday this year, the post office will be closed from Saturday afternoon, December 23, until Tuesday morning, December 26. Mails will be dispatched and brought in, but no regular deliveries will be made.

Because the public responded to the request to mail early last year, the local post office was cleared of Christmas mail by noon of the closing day, Postmaster Shriver said.

Funeral Director Faces Trial over Insurance Policy

Ellsworth Boal Accused of Fraudulently Gaining Benefits

Accusing Ellsworth Boal, trading as Boal's funeral service, with inducing her to assign to him a life insurance policy under which she was the beneficiary, Hilda Ruth Shroat, also known as Hilda Ruth Parker, filed suit in circuit court yesterday asking that a decree be passed declaring the assignment null and void.

The complainant stated that she became beneficiary under the $500 policy of Amos G. Parker after the death of his wife Katherine Parker. Parker died August 23, 1944, and the complainant says she is entitled to proceeds of the policy issued by the Monumental Life Insurance Company.

A few days after Parker's death, Boal induced her, the complainant said, to transfer and assign the policy to him by falsely representing to her that the policy was worthless and of no value to her because she was not married to the insured and that unless the policy and benefits were assigned to him no one would be able to collect anything on it.

Used for Burial

Boal told her further, the complainant charges, that if she assigned the policy to him he would give her the balance of the proceeds, if any, after payment of his charges for Parker's burial.

She believed the representations made to her by Boal, the complainant asserted, and was thereby "induced" by him to assign the policy to him. She adds that the assignment was made and executed with out any consideration whatever and was made solely because of what she charges were Boal's representations.

The woman charges that she has discovered Boal's representations were false and that he knew they were false when he made them. She declares that she has since discovered the policy was and is valid and that she is entitled to the benefits as the legal beneficiary named in the policy and that Boal knew she was legally entitled to the benefits of the policy when he "fraudulently induced" her to assign the policy to him.

Says Company Ready To Pay

According to the bill of complaint, the complainant believes the defendant is willing to pay the death benefit to whomever is legally entitled to it, but, she charges, because of Boal's fraudulent claim, the company cannot make payment until the assignment has been declared null and void by the court.

She asks that the insurance company be directed to pay the proceeds of the policy to the court so that the money may be distributed under the direction of the court.

Approximately 120 names, seventy-five per cent of which are those of young men and women between the ages of 16 and 30, have been sent to the Post Office department, Washington, for certification. The local office will start taking on temporary extra help any time after December 1. Postmaster Shriver said.

The peak of the rush is expected between December 18 and 20, although it may vary if the public, as last year, responds to the request to mail early. Five extra delivery trucks will be used this season. Delivery hours will be the same as usual, Shriver said.

The post office also advises that Christmas cards be sent as sealed, first-class matter, requiring a three-cent stamp, instead of as unsealed, third-class mail. Sealed, first-class cards may contain writing and will receive prompt delivery, as well as directory service in case of error in, or change of, address. Directory service is not given third-class matter.

It was also pointed out that, as Christmas is on a Monday this year, the post office will be closed from Saturday afternoon, December 23, until Tuesday morning, December 26. Mails will be dispatched and brought in, but no regular deliveries will be made.

Because the public responded to the request to mail early last year, the local post office was cleared of Christmas mail by noon of the closing day, Postmaster Shriver said.
